Don Burr is a founder, CEO, and President of POGO. Before POGO, he was the founder of People Express Airlines and president of Burr, Inc., an investment company focused on aviation and information technology.

Burr recently served as chairman and chief executive officer of SBS International in New York City. SBS is a leading provider of labor management software for the airline industry.

Prior to founding Burr, Inc. in 1987, Burr founded People Express Airlines in 1980 and served as the President and Chief Executive Officer until 1987. Burr was with Texas International Airlines from 1973 to 1980, serving as president from 1979 to 1980, and with National Aviation Corporation from 1965 to 1973, serving as president from 1971 to 1973.

He earned his AB from Stanford University in 1963 and his MBA from Harvard University in 1965. He has received honorary degrees from Yale School of Management, Babson College, and Daniel Webster College.
